

John Davis Joins Wheatstone

By Paul Mclane ·

Published: September 13, 2021

Most recently in sales and support at Logitek

From our People News page: John Davis will join Wheatstone's support team. He will be based in Houston.

He currently is sales and support manager for Logitek Electronic Systems, where he has worked for almost 20 years and been a familiar voice on the phone or face in the company's convention booths.

"John has a background in AoIP support of almost 20 years and has previous experience in broadcast automation as the marketing manager for OMT Technologies," Wheatstone said in the announcement.

[\[Visit Radio World's People News Page\]](#)

"In addition to his automation and IP audio networking background, he brings to Wheatstone 18 years of on-air experience with Cox Radio Inc. He continues to fill in on weekends at Cox Radio's Houston stations."

Davis also worked earlier for Nationwide Communications and Sundance Broadcasting, and he is a partner in LFD Communications, a Texas PR and marketing agency, according to his LinkedIn bio. He studied journalism at Arizona State University.

"I'll be leaving Logitek with nothing but respect for Tag Borland and company," Davis wrote in a social media post, "but I'm excited for the future."

Send announcements involving radio technology and executive management hires to radioworld@futurenet.com.

Subscribe

For more stories like this, and to keep up to date with all our market leading news, features and analysis, sign up to our newsletter here.